Rokethon Monaco

"In Mauritius, people are kind, maybe too much so, and naïve," Sylvia Sermenghi says on her native island nation in the Indian Ocean. "So I learned to be tough."

Sylvia moved to Monaco in 1980 and admits that it was "not easy to make your mark". In the reign of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace, "Monaco was a different scene but maybe the whole world was different then."

At age 20, Sylvia worked at the hotel Loews Monte Carlo (the Fairmont Monte Carlo today). After the birth of her son, she decided to be a stay-at-home mom until he started school and it was during that period she worked in fashion, first as a model in Paris, and after on the business side. She set up her own company, Gloria Prod and organised event launches in Monaco – the Dresdner Bank inauguration with Prince Albert and the opening of Zelo's nightclub (now Twiga) – and in France, like the fundraising Par Coeur Gala hosted by French NBA basketball player "Paco" Parker.

Princess Charlene in charity walk against animal abandonment

On Saturday 5 October, Princess Charlene again showed her commitment to animal protection by taking part in the Rokethon Race 2024. The charity walk, organised by the ROKETHON non-profit, took place around the Fontvieille marquee and drew a large number of participants, all driven by the same goal: to defend animal rights.

The Rokethon Race 2024 was more than just a sporting event: the walk was a powerful platform for raising awareness. With an alarming rise in the number of abandoned animals, both in France and worldwide, the aim of the race was to raise awareness about this important issue.
